Courtesy of NRCan and INRS (Institut national de la recherche scientifique) at Quebec City. This project was sheperded by Maggie Wojtarowicz and was based on a web initiative built together by NRCan's Quantitative Risk Assessment Project and the Justice Institute of BC's Rural Resilience Project.

The site uses a registration system and permits registered users to comment on content and to receive notifications of content additions. We hope the CanHUG members will self register on the site to keep up with CanHUG events and resources.

The site features CanHUG material and various resources based on research in the field of risk assessment and Hazus.
